

Cáceres presents their model of Citizen Participation in Rome

Trans-lighthouses Consortium meeting

Administrator

19:46 15/03/24

The City Council of Cáceres, through the Department of Citizen Participation, was present in Rome at the III meeting of the Trans-lighthouses Consortium, which took place on February 28, 29 and March 1.

“This is an international event, which we attended for the first time as guests to participate in a round table dedicated to citizen participation and governance,” explained Ceballos, adding that “I have had the great opportunity to showcase and share the Citizen Participation model that is being developed in Cáceres and to also learn about the working methods of the municipal corporations of Roma, Estarreja and Barcelos in Portugal and Brussels.”

Over the course of several days, participants shared programs closely linked to environmental sustainability, the main objective of the Trans-lighthouses project. This European Union-funded plan comprises 16 partner organizations, "among which Cáceres could join in the not-too-distant future," and integrates pilot projects offering nature-based solutions for the community.

As part of this initiative, “Cáceres has the possibility of integrating and becoming part of this Consortium through a pilot project focused on composting and organic waste management, after appropriate analysis and advice,” highlighted the councilor, who thanked them for the invitation as it has allowed her to “learn firsthand about other systems of citizen

THE LATEST

Cáceres will accelerate the construction of a new sewer line on Túnez street to prevent flooding

This is how the firefighters worked during the storm that hit Extremadura

A famous Chilean chef brings his innovative proposal of sensory and inclusive gastronomy to Plasencia

A 53-year-old worker was hospitalized after inhaling carbon monoxide.

A criminal group that stole more than 6,800 kilos of copper in Extremadura has been dismantled.

participation and face the challenges that arise, which has been an enriching experience.”

Ceballos also announced that “Cáceres will host the 4th Trans-lighthouses Consortium Meeting organized by the University of Extremadura, scheduled for October, which reflects our firm commitment to sustainability and the search for innovative and environmentally friendly solutions.”

The photo accompanying the news story shows the Trans-lighthouses Consortium meeting.

COMMENTS

Sé el primero en comentar...

Por favor identificate o regístrate para comentar

Login con E-mail